

Sunday, March 15, 2015 - What Do Your Social Media Behaviors Say about Your Faith?

The social media frenzy has dominated the human existence for better than a decade. Whether it's Facebook, Twitter, MySpace, etc., the ability to interact with people from across the street or around the world has never been easier. This has opened up a great danger to our young people in the church and, unfortunately, some of our adults.

How do your social media habits align with your claim of Christianity? Wayne Jackson does a brilliant job examining this question in his article, "The Shocking New 'Christian' Generation."

Everyone will be challenged by this article.
