

Saturday, February 4, 2017 - Where will you be tomorrow night?

In the movie "Concussion," it was suggested that Sunday has become the NFL's day when it used to belong to the Lord. The millions that attend the games or watch on TV each week seem to lend credence that God has been replaced at least part of the year.

I would suggest to all that where we CHOOSE to be tomorrow night will go a long way to validating what our relationship with the Lord is like.

Will I be at church worshipping Him or will I be worshipping an idol that offers nothing?
